DECISION AWARDING INTERIM ATTORNEYS' FEES AND COSTS¹

Vowell, Special Master:

On June 5, 2002, petitioners filed a petition for compensation under the National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program, 42 U.S.C. § 300aa-10, *et seq.*² [the "Vaccine Act" or "Program"], alleging that John Charles Bush ["John"] was injured by a vaccine or vaccines listed on the Vaccine Injury Table.

² National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act of 1986, Pub. L. No. 99-660, 100 Stat. 3755 (1986). Hereinafter, for ease of citation, all "§" references to the Vaccine Act will be to the pertinent subparagraph of 42 U.S.C. § 300aa (2006).

On June 7, 2012, petitioners' counsel, Michael Gallagher, filed "Petitioner's Motions for a Decision Adopting the Parties' Stipulation with Respect to Attorneys' Fees and Costs and to Withdraw as Attorney of Record." The motion indicates that while respondent does not object to the amount of attorneys' fees and costs being sought, respondent opposes any award of interim attorneys fees and costs.³ Motion at 4. Respondent filed her response to petitioners' motion for interim attorneys' fees and costs⁴ on June 21, 2012.

For the reasons outlined below, I find that an award of interim attorneys' fees and costs in the amount of $4,210.00 is appropriate.

I. The Applicable Law.

Although the Vaccine Act itself is silent on the issue of interim awards of fees and costs, it is now clear that interim fees and costs may be awarded in Vaccine Act cases. Avera v. Sec'y, HHS, 515 F.3d 1343, 1352 (Fed. Cir. 2008); Cloer v. Sec'y, HHS, --- F.3d ---, 2012 WL 1202044, at *3 (Fed. Cir. 2012). Prevailing on the merits is not a requirement for any Program award for fees and costs, but unsuccessful litigants must demonstrate that their claim was brought in good faith, a subjective standard, and upon a reasonable basis, an objective standard. § 15(e)(1); Perreira v. Sec'y, HHS, No. 90-847V, 1992 WL 164436, at *1 (Cl. Ct. Spec. Mstr. June 12, 1992) (describing good faith as subjective and reasonable basis as objective), aff'd, 27 Fed. Cl. 29 (1992), aff'd, 33 F.3d 1375 (Fed. Cir. 1994). Thus, a Vaccine Act litigant seeking an award of fees and costs before entitlement to compensation is determined must, at a minimum, establish good faith and a reasonable basis for the claim. See Avera, 515 F.3d at 1352.

It is also clear that interim fees and costs need not be awarded in all circumstances, although the factors that delineate when an interim award is appropriate remain somewhat muddled. See Shaw v. Sec'y, HHS, 609 F.3d 1372, 1375 (Fed. Cir. 2010); Avera, 515 F.3d at 1352. In Avera, the Federal Circuit noted that "[i]nterim fees are particularly appropriate in cases where proceedings are protracted and costly experts must be retained." Avera, 515 F.3d at 1352. It has also held that "[w]here the claimant establishes that the cost of litigation has imposed an undue hardship and that there exists a good faith basis for the claim, it is proper for the special master to award interim attorneys' fees." Shaw, 609 F.3d at 1375. Nonetheless, "[t]he special master may determine that she cannot assess the reasonableness of certain fee requests prior to considering the merits of the vaccine injury claim." Id. at 1377.

⁴ Although procedurally an interim fee request, given the simultaneous filing of the motion to withdraw as counsel, the motion represents the final fees and costs request on behalf of the Gallagher Law Firm.

II. Good Faith and Reasonable Basis Exist.

The Omnibus Autism Proceeding [“OAP”] was created to deal efficiently and fairly with an unprecedented number of cases that threatened to overwhelm the bench and bar alike. See generally Autism Gen. Order #1, 2002 WL 31696785 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. July 3, 2002). Based on the content of petitioners’ petition, this case was placed in the OAP and petitioners elected to remain in the OAP. See Notice Regarding “Omnibus Autism Proceeding,” issued August 8, 2002, at 2.

As a reasonable basis was found in each of the OAP test cases, it follows that petitioners in the instant case likewise had a reasonable basis at least until the resolution of the test cases.⁵ Thereafter, activity in this case has concerned determining whether petitioners wish to continue to pursue their claim, followed by Gallagher’s motion to withdraw, activity which I find to have been undertaken in good faith and upon a reasonable basis.

III. An Interim Award is Appropriate at the Time.

Respondent argues an award of interim attorneys’ fees and costs is inappropriate at this time and urges the court to deny petitioners’ motion until the case is concluded or such time as an interim award is appropriate under Avera v. Sec’y, HHS, 515 F.3d 1343 (Fed. Cir. 2008). Respondent, citing Avera, 515 F.3d at 1352, argues that interim attorneys’ fees and costs are available in only the following limited circumstances: “protracted proceedings, significant expert costs, or where petitioner had suffered undue hardship.” Respondent’s Response at 1-2. Respondent argues that such circumstances are not present in this case and the withdrawal of counsel does not fall into these limited circumstances. Id. at 2. I disagree in the instant case, but recognize that the withdrawal of counsel alone may not always provide sufficient justification for an award of interim attorneys’ fees. See McKellar v. Sec’y, HHS, 101 Fed. Cl. 297, 301 (2011) (finding that “some special showing is necessary to warrant interim fees, including but not limited to the delineated [Avera] factors”); McKellar v. Sec’y, HHS, Order Granting Motion for Review and Denying Interim Attorneys’ Fees and Costs, May 3, 2012, ECF No. 53 (rejecting the “notion that withdrawing counsel is a sufficient basis for awarding interim fees.”).

This case is over 10 years old. Granted, a substantial portion of those ten years can be attributed to delays at petitioners’ request. This case, like the thousands of other OAP cases, remained in a holding pattern until the petitioners’ bar was ready to present their causation cases, those cases were tried, decisions issued, and appeals resolved. With the last of the appeals resolved in August, 2010, the court began ordering the remaining 4800 OAP petitioners to file an amended petition if they wished to continue to pursue their entitlement claims. In May, 2012, petitioners were ordered to do so. Counsel now explains that he is unable to prosecute this case, based on a lack of a reasonable basis to proceed. Petitioners, however, seeks to do so, pro se.

⁵ The OAP theory 1 test cases were Cedillo v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 98-916V, 2009 WL 331968 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Feb. 12, 2009), Hazlehurst v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 03-654V, 2009 WL 332306 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Feb. 12, 2009), and Snyder v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 01-162V, 2009 WL 332044 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Feb. 12, 2009). The OAP theory 2 test cases were Dwyer v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 03-1202V, 2010 WL 892250 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Mar. 12, 2010), King v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 03-584V, 2010 WL 892296 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Mar. 12, 2010), and Mead v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 03-215V, 2010 WL 892248 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Mar. 12, 2010).

Nothing in Avera requires the court to apportion “fault” in evaluating whether the proceedings have been protracted. The OAP was created to deal efficiently and fairly with an unprecedented number of cases that threatened to overwhelm the bench and bar alike. See generally Autism Gen. Order #1, 2002 WL 31696785. While it is certainly possible that this case could have been litigated outside the OAP, as some autism cases were, petitioners’ participation in the OAP permitted the court and respondent to devote resources to cases outside the OAP as well as to the consolidated discovery and hearing processes within the OAP. I also note that the years during which this petition sat dormant in the OAP allowed respondent to reap benefits from the advancements in scientific understanding of autism spectrum disorders.

The Gallagher Law Firm has diligently represented petitioners for a number of years while this claim was pending in the court’s protracted OAP proceedings, and now seeks to withdraw from representation. It appears that petitioners wish to continue to pursue John’s claim, but their current counsel does not believe he can continue to represent them because he does not believe there is a reasonable basis to continue the case. Motion at 4. In seeking to withdraw, petitioners’ counsel has attempted to strike a balance between his duty to his clients and his obligations as an officer of the court. It is well established that an attorney may not file or continue to pursue a case when he believes there is no reasonable basis for doing so.⁶ In a separate order I will grant Mr. Gallagher’s motion to withdraw as counsel.

Counsel’s desire to withdraw may not, standing alone, mandate the award of fees and costs on an interim basis. McKellar, 101 Fed. Cl. at 302. However the pending termination of the attorney-client relationship is not the only factor present here. I find that the proceedings in this case have been protracted. Additional delay is likely, but it is impossible at present to determine how much time will yet be required to resolve question of entitlement to compensation. Given respondent’s understandable interest in having all available medical records filed before entitlement is determined,⁷ and the need for petitioners to obtain an expert opinion supporting their case, some additional period of delay is very likely, particularly if petitioners remain pro se.⁸ In my experience, it takes pro se petitioners longer than an attorney to obtain and file medical records, and, to date very few pro se OAP petitioners have succeeded in finding a physician willing to opine in favor of vaccine causation. Thus, if petitioners continue to pursue John's case for compensation, a substantial period of delay may ensue before resolution of the entitlement claim.

⁶ Lumsden v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 97-588, 2012 WL 1450520,*4 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Mar. 28, 2012); see also Edmonds v. Sec’y, HHS, No. 04-87V, 2012 WL 1229149, *11-12 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Mar. 22, 2012) (discussing the constraints placed on counsel from continuing representation in these circumstances).

Under these circumstances, petitioners have established a sufficient basis to warrant the award of fees and costs on an interim basis.⁹ Petitioners' counsel has represented that this interim application for fees and costs represents the final application he will file for his fees and costs in this case.

IV. Conclusion

I hold petitioners are entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to §§ 15(b) and (e)(1), as I find that the petition was brought in good faith and upon a reasonable basis, and the amounts requested are reasonable and appropriate.

Although respondent has challenged whether fees and costs may be awarded on an interim basis in this case, the parties have agreed on the amount of fees and costs incurred by Mr. Gallagher. I adopt the parties' agreement, and pursuant to § 15(e), I award a lump sum of $4,210.00¹⁰ to be paid in the form of a check payable jointly to the petitioners and petitioners' counsel, Michael T. Gallagher. The interim award check shall be mailed directly to The Gallagher Law Firm, located at 2905 Sackett Street, Houston, TX 77098.

⁹ The convention in the Vaccine Program is to refer to requests for fees and costs as petitioners' requests or applications, even though the vast majority of these requests primarily involve their attorneys' fees and only modest amounts of the awards go directly to petitioners themselves. The Vaccine Act's § 15 has been interpreted as requiring the payment to be made to petitioners, even though the attorney is legally entitled to the funds, and the attorneys are the real parties in interest in most fees and costs petitions. Heston v. Sec'y, HHS, 41 Fed. Cl. 41 (1998); Newby v. Sec'y, HHS, 41 Fed. Cl. 392 (1998). In one recent case, however, a special master ordered that the check be made payable to the attorney alone, as the petitioner could not be located. Gitesatani v. Sec'y, HHS, No. 09-799, 2011 WL 5025006 (Fed. Cl. Spec. Mstr. Sept. 30, 2011) (noting that Heston and Newby involved pre-1988 vaccinations and thus a different section of the Vaccine Act applied to their attorney fees).

¹⁰ This amount is intended to cover all legal expenses incurred in this matter. This award encompasses all charges by the attorney against a client, "advanced costs" as well as fees for legal services rendered. Furthermore, § 15(e)(3) prevents an attorney from charging or collecting fees (including costs) that would be in addition to the amount awarded herein. See generally Beck v. Sec'y, HHS, 924 F.2d 1029 (Fed. Cir. 1991).

In the absence of a timely-filed motion for review filed pursuant to Appendix B of the Rules of the U.S. Court of Federal Claims, the clerk of the court shall enter judgment in accordance herewith. Pursuant to Vaccine Rule 11(a), the parties may expedite entry of judgment by filing a joint notice renouncing the right to seek review.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
